The MARSH FOOD CO-OP is open to individuals, families, and organizations wishing to purchase low-cost local, organic, and natural foods. Co-op shareholders may order online or in person, purchase local, organic produce, prepared foods and meals, and receive discounts in the MARSH diner (where pickups take place). Shareholders may also use the licensed kitchen to hold pop-ups and events and prepare food and may sell their own products (prepared foods, baked goods) through the co-op, becoming both consumers and producers. Small farms and local food businesses may also join the food co-op, supplying both the diner and the consumer co-op. All owner-members buy a life-time share in the co-op for $100 and make decisions collectively. Subsidized shares are available and some owner-members may choose to provide free shares to others. SHARES ARE AVAILABLE. Email marshlifeart@gmail.com or join online: www.marshlife-art.org

The WORKERS-OWNED COOPERATIVE DINER (located 6917 S. Broadway in the former L&S Café space) is open to the public and serves breakfast and lunch daily (opening date: July 1, 2019). The chefs, cooks, and food service staff own the diner, make decisions about the menu and schedule, source/grow ingredients through the food co-op, and share all profits (in addition to wages). Worker-owners also use the licensed kitchen for pop-ups, events, catering, and producing prepared foods. Worker-owners buy a life-time share in the diner for $100, cooperatively owning the enterprise for as long as they work hours in the diner. WE ARE CURRENTLY INVOLVING NEW WORKER-OWNERS. E-mail us at marshlifeart@gmail.com.

MARSH designs this insurgent food system to creatively consider and value labor, land, and socio-political intra-action. Through this food system, we work together to re-orient the ways in which we work, eat, produce food, and support one another; we reduce our ecological footprint, we involve the sources of our food in our choices about what and how we consume/produce, we share profits and construct just and adaptive labor systems for and by ourselves and our communities.

JUNE 9-16: Join us for the BIOCULTUREALITIES Symposium + Performance Festival!
